SUPREME COURT.

Opening of the January Term .. Large Attendance of the Bac---Decision in the Case of Luomens.

The Supreme Court opened in January term at 10 o'clock this morning. Mr. Justice Preston presides, and at the opening the following members of the bar were present: Messrs, A. S. Hartwell, A. P. Peterson (Deputy Attorney-General), W. R. Castle, William Foster, Cecil Brown, W. O. Smith, V. V. Ashford, A. Rosa, J. L. Kaulukou, F. M. Hatch, Chas. Creighton, J. A. Magoon, Gardner K. Wilder, W. C. Achi, J. H. Barenaba, J. M. Monsarrat, S. K. Kane, C. L. Carter, Jas. K. Kaulia, W. L. Holokahiki, and J. M. Kaneakua. Mr. Casson, a member of the New York bar, attended the opening in company with Mr. Hartwell. Marshal Soper officiated as Officer of the Court, and Mr. Henry Smith, Clerk, and Messrs. W. L. Wilcox, J. M. Vivas, and Li Cheung, respectively Hawaiian, Portuguese, and Chinese interpreters, were in attendance. Probably owing to repairs going on in the building, there was a scarcity of both tables and chairs. Many of the lawyers had to find seats in the jury box, while members of the and he would be ready to state the press had no accommodation what-

Immediately on the Court being proclaimed open, Judge Preston rendered the opinion of the full Court on the exceptions to order of Chief Justice Judd, overruling motion for new trial in the case of Albert Loomens, convicted of treason at the October term. The ground of the motion mainly in question was that two of the jurymen, M. N. Sanders and T. M. Starkey, held commissions as policemen of the police force of the Hawaiian Government. | Koloa. In the argument on the bill of exceptions, it was conceded that Starkey did not hold a commission, and the argument was confined to the point only with respect to Sanders.

Previous to Sanders being sworn on the panel, he was examined on the voir dire as to his indifference and was accepted by the defendant. but it was alleged on argument that his holding of a commission as constable was not then known to the defendant. It appeared by the affidavit of the Marshal that Sanders held a commission as a special constable without pay and conditioned that he should not be called upon to render any service except in case of an uprising or insurrection or other grave emergency.

The full Court, by Judge Preston, decide as follows: "The only qualification of jurors by law is that they shall in the opinion of the Chief Clerk of the Supreme Court or the clerks of the Circuit Courts respectively, or of some Judge of such Courts, be fit to serve as jurors. The only persons exempted by statute are postmasters and their clerks. It has been the practice for the Courts, in their discretion, to excuse officers of the Government and regular paid constables from service on juries, especially in criminal cases, but this discretion has been exercised also in excusing persons whom the Court on examination thought might be biased.

"It may be that some Judges would in their discretion excuse a juryman in the position of the one in question, but it could not be on the ground that he was disquaffiled by law. In fact, this juryman was not bound by virtue of his commissien to do any more than any other citizen might be called upon to do in ease of emergency.

"The verdict of the jury was unanimous, and we see no reason for disturbing it. The exceptions are overruled." A. P. Feterson and F. M. Hatch for the Crown; A. Rosa, for detendant. The prisoner Loomens stood at the bar of the Court while the decisien was being read, and at the close was removed from the Chamber by the Marshal. The calendar was then proceeded with, the first case being the King vs. John Hapa, malicious injury. Mr. Peterson, for the Crown, asked for a nolle pros., Mr. Kaulukou for
